
The Legend of Lough Corrib

Once upon a time, there was a beautiful lady named Layla. She was absolutely kind and generous. Layla lived in a big forest with her friends the leprechauns. They always had fun and played together every day. Their life was amazing!

However, their forest didn't have any food or water so the leprechauns went to the giant's forest, that was near, and took the food there.

One day, while the lady and the leprechauns were playing, the giants suddenly came to their forest. They were very angry that the leprechauns stole their food so they decided to kill them. The leprechauns were very scared and they told to Layla that she had to hide, to protect herself. Then, the giants started to walk on the tiny leprechauns and they immediately died under their feet. As soon as Layla came back, she saw the big holes left by the giant's steps and she realized that all of her friends were death. She was so sad that she started crying and never stopped.

Every day, every hour and every minute since that moment, she cried, sitting by the holes in the forest. She cried so much that the holes became filled with her tears and created the lake of « Lough Corrib » in Ireland

They say that if you swim in that lake, you will loose all of your friends and family.
